Reading lessons this week will center around several skills the class will need to be successful. We will talk about comprehension strategies, author's purpose and how a character is crafted in a story. The students will also work on their stories they have been writing and revision will be the focus. Word sort words will concentrate on consonant blends and digraphs such as st, str, th, and thr. In Social Studies we will discuss symbols of the United States such as the Statue of Liberty.
